“ Please accept my deepest condolences for your loss. Death is a terrible sting that affects all of us no matter who we are. I know you will miss your loved one very much, but as you cherish fond memories. During this difficult time God promises to provide comfort to the brokenhearted and those crushed in spirit, and heal our hearts in the very near future, when no one will ever experience sickness, pain or death again. What a wonderful day that will be! Psalms 34:18; Revelation 21:4-5
