“ I would first like to say that we are so sad to have to say Goodbye to such a kind-hearted, hard-working and loving man. We pray that God will strengthen all of us who feel an empty place in our lives from losing him. We have fond memories of times when Uncle Willie would come to visit his family in Michigan. We loved when he would stop by our house in the "big truck with the bed in it" during his truck-driving days. Whenever he would park by our house, it always made my sisters, Juanda and Ducie and our brother Chuck and I feel extra cool because a bunch of the kids in our neighborhood would run over and want to check out the big truck and the cool, tall man who drove it. :) Uncle Willie would give us a boost so we could climb in and look at it. This was in the 70's so we were still kinda little. :) As curious and excited as we may have been, he always had a patient and gentle smile when answering our many questions or letting us know what we could and couldn't touch in the big rig. Uncle Willie never came empty-handed either. He would always bring us a big bag of candy! My favorite kind was the Brach's coconut cubes. They were brown, pink and white. I think our mom also liked them, 'cause she always got her a few out of the bag. We didn't mind though, cause after all, he was her uncle first. :)

Over the years, we(the kids) didn't see Uncle Willie as often, but he would always ask mom or pops how we were doing whenever they would see him or talk with him on the phone. In more recent years, I had the pleasure of reuniting with him when my mom & pops, Henrietta and Charles went to Atlantic City in 2006 with my husband, Jammie and I to see the James Toney vs. Hasim Rahman fight. We had a great time going over fond memories and he and my hubby really clicked. After my family suffered a terrible, personal loss,

Uncle Willie always checked on us and wanted to know how we were doing and encouraged us to keep being strong. He did this all while having to deal with his own personal health struggles. He was a wonderful person who will be missed dearly and we are blessed to have been a part of his journey here, in this life. Praying that the Lord has welcomed him Home for eternity. We love you Uncle Willie and you will always have a special place in our hearts..:) Sharon
